

Emergency Response Team Training (Customised to your workplace)

An effective and confident Emergency Response Team (ERT) is a vital part of your emergency planning and management. Planning for potential emergency situations is the key to prompt control and minimisation of injury to persons, damage to property and the environment.

The ERT training program will equip your emergency team with the knowledge and practical skills needed to confidently act in the event of an emergency. The training program will be customised to include your business' emergency management plan and internal processes to ensure that the training is as relevant to your organisation as possible. This will enable your emergency team to confidently apply their new skills and knowledge back to the workplace immediately.

Who should do this course?

Staff who have been selected or appointed to fulfil a role on the Emergency Response Team including Fire Wardens, Communications Officers, and First Aid qualified representatives. This course is applicable to both new and existing Emergency Response Team members.
